New Deal For Mines In Willow Valley

Assignment by the Silver Pick Consolidated Mines Company of its holdings in the Willow Valley section to California Consolidated Mines Inc. constitutes one of the biggest thansactions recorded at the Nevada county court house in many a month.

The new organization amply financed in San Francisco is making preparations to open up as quickly as possible the entire territory in which are located the Le Compton, Posey, United, Independence, Constitution, Cyane, Federal Loan and other claims to the number of seventeen.

Two men are engaged today in clearing away brush and trees from the old workings.

Le Compton has a past production record of over $1,000,000. Others of the properties named also have production records of large proportions.

The properties lie on Deer Creek, three miles east of Nevada City and are easily accessible.

The deal was made through the efforts of Lloyd L. Root, former state mineralogist. Among those financially interested and on the board of directors of the California Consoldated Mines Co., are F. F. Morse of the Morse Realty Co., L. D. Bacigalupi, formerly vice president of the Bank of America, G. O. Thomas, of Thomas & Bowe, Oakland, and C. T. Eastman, mining engineer, F. H. Arnsburger, and Lloyd L. Root.

Bacigalupi and Eastman, accompanied Root last week in an extensive examination of the properties.

Leases from the Tautphaus Estate and the Mallen heirs also are included in the assignments filed.

PRELIMINARY HEARING FOR FERRY BROTHERS

The preliminary hearing in the case of the People against Walter and Ray Ferry has been transferred from the court of Justice of the Peace Oscar Winburn of Grass Valley to that Justice of the Peace W. L. Mobley of Nevada City. The hearing will take place at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. The Ferry brothers are accused of grand theft. They are now in the county jail. Ray Ferry is suspected of having robbed the Schreiber cafe of a slot machine three weeks ago.

The case was transferred to the justice court in this city because Judge Winburn was obliged to make a hurried business trip to Los Angeles. He left for that city Saturday afternoon.

MAX SOLARO IS HURT WHEN HIT BY TREE

Max Solaro ,who was using a small tractor, in the employ of a contracting firm building a bridg enear Sacramento, snaking out long logs up on the Tahoe-Ukiah highway right away, was severly injured Saturday when a log at the end of the long cable struck a rotten snag of a tree which fell in such a way as to strike his back.

He was rushed to Jones Memorial hospital in Grass Valley. Two Sacramento specialists in consultation with Dr. Carl Jones found a few processes broken off the spine. His spnial Column is not broken as was at first feared.

TWO YOUNG PEOPLE BAPTISED EASTER DAY

There was a splendid attendance at the Methodist church for both morning and evening services.

After an excellent sermon by Rev H. H. Buckner, Catherin Margaret Celio and brother, Gove Clark Celio, were baptised into the church and Mrs. Ed Burns came in by affiliation.

A solo by Mrs. Charles Elliott accompanied by Miss Minnie Brand was a special feature for the morning service.

In the evening a well rendered Easter program was also enjoyed by a large attendance.

There are to be special services on Sunday evening, April 23 at which time a minister born in Nevada City will deliver the sermon. He is at present a district superintendent.

The speaker for the morning of April 23 will be Dr. I. B. Bristol.

David Bleakley and Thomas Flynn, left early Saturday mornin for Vancouver, British Columbia. Mr. Bleakley is interested in gravel mining claims on the Quesnel river in the northern part of the province, and with Mr. Flynn expects to complete development work this summer.

SHAFT CLEARING AT CANADA HILL

Satisfactory progress is being made in the work at the Canada Hill mine by the West Mines Corporation. The initial program contemplates the unwatering and repair of the old Charanatt shaft. A crew of 12 men has cleaned up the surface in preparation for this work; the old head frame has been repaired and a small gasoline hoist installed which will serve until electric power is available, when the hoist at the Buffington mine will be put into service.

The power line has been cleared and the poles distributed along this for a connection at the Greenmen. This line will be but 750 feet in length.

The upper portion of the shaft is caved but good progress is being made in its recovery. This work was undertaken on the 6th and in 11 days 80 feet of shaft has been opened and new timbers placed. A third shaft was started upon the work on the 12th and a progress of 10 feet daily is now being maintained. It is expected that some open shaft will soon be encountered and better progress will be secured. Below the drain tunnel level, at 200 feet, the ground is known to be solid and better conditions are expected in the remaining 1300 feet that has been under water for many years.

When the sixth level is reached, lateral development will be undertaken and some ore in the south end of the ore shoot will be mined and treated in the Queen Lil mill, while the work of shaft recovery and rehabilitation is being continued to the bottom level.

At this lower horizon it is proposed to carry lateral development into the two faulted segments to the north and south of the area which had been mined out in early day operations. These two vein segments have never been explored at depth, although the presence of an ore shoot is indicated by previous operations upon it at the surface.

FILBERT PLANTING IN CALIFORNIA INCREASES

California's new "farm baby," the filbert industry, took a big step toward mature development today with the announcement by R. H. Turk, a national authority on filberts, that he has acquired 238 acres near Chico for immediate plantings.

The Chico plant, Turk said, calls for the planting of 4,000 orchard trees this season and 500,000 young trees for nursery stock, making the largest filbert nursery development in the entire country.

Turk announced that he planned similiar orchard and nursery development projects for the new industry in Sacramento and Los Angeles counties in the near future and declared there is every indication that California will soon become the leading filbert growing area in the United States, due to ideal growing conditions and the fact that the nut is one of the few under-produced crops available.

With hundreds of orchardists turning teo the new nut as a source of cash income, Turk, who also owns extensive filbert acreages in Washington ,said that it is planned to hold a convention of growers this summer, either at Chico or Redding, to complete organization of the California Filbert Growers Association.

The front of the apartment will be used as an office for the doctor. They have arranged comfortable rooms to the back in which to live.

INVALID FOR 20 YEARS, SUCCUMBS

Carl B. Schwartz, affectionately known to his many friends as "Toppy," passed away at an early hour last Friday morn at his home on Boulder street, where he was born 58 years ao.

For over 20 years he had been an invalid and his pleasant, kindly greeting, from his wheel chair on his cozy vine covered porch, will be missed by the scores who passed. With great patience and fortitude he bore his great suffering often in silence.

Mr. Sewartz was a mill man until he was taken ill.

He leaves a devoted wife, an aged mother and a sister, Mrs. Rutherford Stephens, besides several nephews and a niece.

He was a member of the Elks and Native Sons lodges of Nevada City.

The funeral was held Sunday afternoon from the Elks Hall with the officers of Nevada City lodge rendering their beautiful ceremony. Rev. Charles Washburn of the Episcopal church conducted the service. service.

At the grave side, in Pine Grove cemetery, the services were conducted by the Native Sons of the Golden West with Rev. Washburn pronouncing benediction.

Many and beautiful were the floral pieces sent by loving relatives and friends.

What could be more appropriate for this kindly Christian man that he should pass away on Good Friday and be borne to eternal rest in the beautiful Pine Grove cemetery on Easter day?

STUDENT FINDS NO DIGNITY IN ASSEMBLY

COLUSA, April 17—(UP)—California's lawmakers apparently aren't such a dignified lot, after all.

A high school student from Williams, who, with his class, attended a legislative session, turned in the following "impressions" as part of his scholastic work:

"The assembly does not give a young person who is visiting it a very good impression of the men who make our laws. Courtesy in the true sense of the word is lacking almost completely. No dignity, which is usually connected with a person in public office and in the public limelight was displayed. Feet were propped upon desks, everybody jabbered at once and did not pay the slightest attention to the person who had the floor. The senate session was much different in comparison because there the representatives seemed to take an interest in what was going on. To most of us students the senate proved much more interesting than the assembly."

DELHI MINE EXAMINED BY PARTY FROM S. F.

Louis Nonneman and his attorney Peter tum Suden, of San Francisco, last week, came up with several parties that are looking over the Delhi mine in which Mr. Nonneman is one of the principal owners.

Mr. Nonneman is a meat packer of San Francisco, but his father operated the old Delhi property until a heavy flow of water shut down operations shortly before his death several years ago.

April Storm Brings Varied Weather Samples

Snow began to fall at 5:45 o'clock this morning and soon covered the ground with nearly an inch of the wet white mantle. Intermittently through the day, characteristic April weather has predominated, with rain, hail, snow and sleet alternating with an occasional streak of sunshine.

Frank Davies returned Sunday from a business trip to San Francisco, stopping over for a few hours in Nevada City to visit his family, before returning to Alleghany where he and his sons have opened a grocery store.

Dr. Ormiston Swayze and wife are moving into one of the apartments of Mrs. Effie Goering's house next to the home of Congressman Harry Englebright on Broad street, from their present location in the Seamon building.

ROBERT K. LANE TRIED FOR THEFT

Robert K. Lane went to trial before Superior Judge I. L. Harris in San Francisco last Friday on a grand theft charge, growing out of a lease agreement involving the Ideal Gold Mining and Milling Company south east of Nevada City in Nevada county.

The prosecution contended stockholders of the company leased the property to Lane for five years for $10, and royalties and gave him an option to purchase the holdings for $75,000 on his alleged representation that he had unlimited working capital and equipment.

Stockholders asserted Lane then attempted to sell his lease and that they demanded its return, but that he failed to return it. A grand theft indictment here followed.

Among the stockholders are T. J. Cooper and H. G. Lunt, P. J. Clark of Nevada City was among those called to San Francisco for the case, which is being prosecuted by Assistant District Attorney A. L. Fourtner and defended by Edward A. Cunha.

This property consists of 120 acres of patented ground and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kistle and family live on it. It also adjoins the old Charronat property, owned by R. W. Gaylord, now being opened by McCraney and Bettles.

STATE HUNTER BAGS 160TH LION

CAMPTONVILLE, April 16.—The State Lion Hunter, Charles Ledshaw has been camped here for the past two weeks hot on the trail of some of the lions inhabiting this part of the country. A few days ago he bagged a female lion on Grizzley Creek. Fred H. Butz, who is also interested in lion hunting and who bagged a big seven foot cat during the heavy snow, accompanied him on this hunt.

Ledshaw has been in the employ of the state for quite some time, during which time, he has brought down 160 California lions. He has with him a group of seven trained dogs two of which are blood hounds. He has hunted in all parts of the state and in Southern California is known as an expert huntsman, conducting many parties of hunters into the forests for ferocious wild animals; in one section he completely ridded the woods of bob cats.

Lion hunting is a very difficult and dangerous occupation. The big cats travel many miles in the course of a day and many times at dark the trail becomes very warm, and rather than quit and loose the possibility of getting his game, he continues on in the dark, and when the animal is encountered, it is very difficult to control the dogs, and shoot the lion by aid of a flashlight. On several occasions at night he has had almost a hand to hand combat with the lion, narrowly escaping injury or death. On one occasion he was in such close quarters with a large lion as to strike him over the head with his gun, the blows, almost breaking the firearm, but with no effect upon the lion.

This section is infested with a large number of lions although they are seldom seen. They prey upon the deer, cattle, and other animals suffer much destruction in the course of a years time, and it is appreciated by the local people, hunters and cattlemen that Ledshaw is endeavoring to clear some of these varmint from the forests.

TOM LOFTUS AND LONG LOST SISTER UNITED

GRASS VALLEY, April 17—(UP)—Tom H. Loftus, miner, recently was reunited with his sister after 23 years separation, through a chance remark of his daughter, while convalescing at a hospital here.

The daughter told two sister of Mercy who visited her that an aunt of hers belonged to the Order of Sisters of Mercy. One of the visitors proved to be the aunt, Sister Dominica.

Unknown to each other, the brother and sister had resided in the same town for more than a year and a half.

Former Fire Chief In Reply To Netz' Letter

Nevada City, April 17, 1933
Editor Nevada City Nugget
Dear Sir:

Let it be known now, and for all time to come, that the Nevada City Fire Department is entirely a voluntary organization and was never organized for the purpose of "pulling the wool over the eyes of our people", as stated by a property owner, Mr. Ludwig Netz, in last Friday's issue of the Nevada City Nugget.

Such a statement makes one wonder if any person, especially a property owner, exercises his full senses. For such an insinuation cast upon the very oranization that is working for the interest and protection of our civic welfare at all times, cannot come from thoughtful consideration.

We, as volunteers, respond and work our fool heads off at the cry of distress brought forth by the taps of the fire bell. Our one ambition is to serve the poor unfortunate as well as we are able. All we ask is an adequate water supply to be depended upon when the critical moment arises, and proper equipment to carry on.

When the bell taps we do know where the Red Demon has been successful. It may be your home, my home, or Mr. Netz's home, as the last alarm turned in from Box 27 proved to be. It was only a chimney fire that ignited Mr. Netz' roof, but water was the vital factor and water put it out.

Bear this thought in mind, if the valve of the fire hydrant was turned on, and no water came forth, with a disastrous fire raging, what would happen? If the reason that no water was available was due to a blow-out in one of the water mains, with water running to waste into Deer creek, what would any property owner say, including Mr. Netz? Very likely he would say: "To hell with the swimming pool. What we want is fire protection."

Fire protection is the motive for our organization. We are endeavoring to impress upon the minds of our citizens, the watchword: "Fire Prevention." The Nevada City Fire Department was organized in 1860 for the sole purpose of saving life and property, and working for the interest of our community.

I do not hesitate to say that this is the first time in the history of our department that we have been accused of "pulling the wool voer the eyes of our citizens." Please let it be the last. A letter of apology is in order from Mr. Netz.

E. J. KILROY,
Former Chief Nevada City Fire Dept.

NEVADA COUNTY BABIES THRIVE

SACRAMENTO, April 13.—(UP)—California still is one of the healthiest places in the world for babies.

A report of the state department of public health reveals that the infant mortality rate for the state took another drop in 1932 when there were 4,125 infant deaths in the state as compared to 4,609 in 1931.

The drop in the rate was from 56.5 per thousand live births to 52.8 last year.

In Nevada county, there were five infant deaths last year as compared to eight in 1931, according to state records.

"Lower infant mortality rates prevailed in 1932 among all races except Indian, Chinese and Japanese," the department reported.

"The rate for white infants fell from 41.8 to 40 in 1932; for Negro infants from 74.2 to 58. 6; for Mexican infants from 127.1 in 1931 to 118.9 in 1932.

"The determination of the Mexican decreased rate was undoubtedly influenced by the extensive migration of Mexicans to their mother country."

Segregated by races, the infant deaths were as follows:

White, 2,493; Negro, 69; Indian, 51; Chinese, 48; Japanese, 80; Mexican, 1,357; and others, 27.

The general rate established in the state as a whole was bettered by many California cities, including the following:

Oakland, 40; Alameda, 34.8; Berkeley, 24.8; Richmond, 42.8; Fresno, 49.8; Long Beach, 36.1; Pasadena, 34; Glendale, 26.4; Sacramento, 46.7; San Diego, 47.2; San Francisco, 39.4; Santa Barbara, 36.3; San Jose, 33.2, and Palo Alto, 22.3.

Mrs. Mary Langley has gone to visit in Los Angeles with her daughters.

MOTORIST FIRM IN TAX STAND

By MELVIN LORD

SACRAMENTO, April 17—(UP)—With the 1933 session of the legislature drawing to a close, the fight over taxes directly affecting California motorists is reaching a climax.

Opponents of plans to divert gasoline tax funds are standing firm on the ground any such diversion would mean an additional direct levy on motorists of the state.

In support of the contention that motorists already are carrying a very heavy burden, a report just completed by the state board of equalization shows that automobile owners are payin taxes on 1,539,743 cars, exclusive to trucks, with an assessed valuation of more than $179,000,000.

The report showed that in Nevada county there are 2,501 automobiles with an assessed valuation of $220,-610 on the tax rolls.

Taxes on these cars, officials pointed out, are paid in addition to the 3-cent gasoline tax which must be paid if the cars are to be operated.

Proponents of gasoline diversion proposals, however, take the stand th egasoline fund could stand an additional burden during the present economic crisis because the construction of highways is not so important as other functions, including social welfare activities.

Governor Rolph recently reiterated that he believed the proposed use of $8,000,000 for the retirement of state highway bonds is only a matter of sound government and would greatly relieve the state government's financital situation.

Opposition to this proposal, it is believed ,is based on the fear such a use of gas tax funds would be only a "wedge" for further diversions.

In the meantime the assembly roads and highways committee refused to either table or recommend the bill based on the Rolph proposal, and re-referred the measure to the ways and means committee.

Prosit! Saluta! Here's mud in your eye!

Beer is here, and the long, dusty journey fourteen years long is ended as the nation gathers around the oasis from which gushes the amber fluid, viewed by many California editors as indicating that "happy days are here again."

Declaring the return of legal beer and wine "gives us the chance to prove that we have grown up" the San Diego Sun adds:

"In older countries people rarely drink beer and wine to excess. The mugs and goblets there are emptied as part of the meal, and the meal itself is a social function. Because they have learned temperance they have not had prohibition. Excess breeds a counter-excess. With out increasing leisure we too, may take time to eat and drink together and, perhaps, recapture the fading arts of conversation, wit and philosophic discourse."

Pointing out that the modified bill which permits, so far as the federal government is concerned, the sale of beer, is a far cry from the old day of the corner saloon, the Long Beach Press-Telegram said:

"Those who favor the legalization of beer must surely realize that conditions which existed prior to the passage of the eighteenth amendment never again will be tolerated. Legalized been must mean that not only its sale but every transaction related to it must be lawful and without effrontery to common decencies."

"There will, of course," said the El Centro Imperial Valley Press, "be discussion for some days to come on various angles connected with the arrival of beer, but it is due to become a minor topic with considerable swiftness. It is high time we concentrated some of the time given over to beer on other more important things— getting the unemployed back to work, and giving the farmer a decent living, being the two most important."

LOOKING UP

By S. G. RUBINOW

SACRAMENTO, April 17—(UP)—. Favorable reaction to the campaign launched at the beginning of the month to stimulate consumption of goods and services, is already being felt on all sides.

From the East comes the authentic report that wholesale prices have started upward; advances in retail prices should be made soon. While no one desires to see the high levels of 1929 return, everybody does know that maximum prosperity obtained when prices, wages, salaries, services, purchasing power, and spending power were up instead of being down.

Industry, following the example of government, is putting man-power back to work. That's the healthiest sing of all in return to prosperity.

With the exception of a few spots here and there, the bank situation has been ironed out. Banks are now stronger than ever before, a most desirable thing for the country as a whole.

Gold, stopped from being withdrawn and exported, and pulled out of hoardings, has been returned to the United States. The government can act, and act decisevely, when it has to, recent developments clearly demonstrate.

One thing more can and should be done. For a long time now, I have advocated a halt to enactment of so much legislation. The American public is dizzy trying to familiarize itself with and stay within so many laws.

In no other civilized country in the world is there such an annual or biennial grinding out of laws as in the United States. What good does it do? Whom does it help?

Take agriculture in California for example. Already, there are more than 25,000 laws on our books effecting California agriculture, and California farmers, and the business of farming.

How many more there will be, when this year's legislature gets through, no one can tell. It's got to stop. We, the people, are law-dizzy.

The purpose of laws, as of justice, is to aid and clarify. But the more laws we have, the greater the confusion, and the more the bewilderment.

People have been howling for farm relief, bank relief, money relief, unemployment relief, and every other kind of relief. Why not a little relief from the excess baggage of legislation?

It's gotten past the foolsh stage. It's become tragic. Let's get back to law-sanity. It may improve business.

TO RELEASE 9000 QUAIL AND PHEASANTS

SA FRANCISCO, April 17—Because the economic conditions have made raising of upland birds less profitable than former years, the State Fish and Game Commission has just purchased, at bargain prices, 7200 quail and 1800 pheasants from several individuals who have been raising these birds commercially under permit.

With the quail and pheasants raised on the game farms of the state, the full quota needed for this year's program to increase these species of game birds has now been filled.

After conducting an exhaustive examination of those offered for sale, August Bade, superintendent of the state game farms, pronounces the birds purchased to be as fine specimens as it would be possible to procure.

Suitable areas, obtained rent free from public spirited land owners, have been selected to realse the birds on, and within the next few weeks these 9000 quail and pheasants will be roaming the uplands, under absolute protection from hunters and predatory birds and animals.

With the 7200 quail just bought it is the aim of the Commission to release over 15,000 of these birds during 1933. There will be over 30,000 pheasants turned loose in this period, if plans now made are carried through.

WEEKLY COMMENT

CHRISTIAN ANDERSEN

Bear with me while I say another word or two about the now famous Judd case. (I know that my words can do no good). This woman has been convicted of murdering two other women, but I am of the opinion that all the truth has not come out yet and perhaps never will. Until the truth can be established, if the state of Arizona has been so outraged, why not incarcerate her indefinitely under observation and in that way let her live a seething hell here on earth in full view of the outraged populace, thereby giving the avengers their sweet revenge, but never let any hanging of a woman smear the otherwise fair escutcheon of so fair a state.

The word communist is in my opinion one of the most facile words in the English language.

Every time there is a strike for more wages even on a farm, the authorities are called to disperse the communists when probably the real truth is that the people employed were simply and reasonably trying to get the employer to pay them enough so that they can live decently like any working man is entitled to live.

In Fridays edition of the Nugget Mr. Ludwig Netz ably sets forth his own feeling about what should be done with the swimming pool money.

After the election perhaps it will be known more definitely what will be done with the much discussed $11,000. Whatever the outcome the plain fact still stands out clearly, which is that a swimming pool is an ASSET TO ANY COMMUNITY, if ever God set a jewel in this part of our earthly firmanent it was when with natures help He engineered the stupendously beautiful landscape in whose lap the early settlers decided to build the town in which we live. When to this naturally beautiful spot we add a swimming pool of adequate capacity and with enough ground for other recreational activities then we shall have truly been good and faithful servants to posterity and the "talent" given to us will have been put to the use intended.

While strolling the other day through a field and into the edge of a copse of woods I came upon a spot which gave evidence of having been a garden. There was row upon row of old fashioned flags, old fashioned roses, jasmine, lemon verbena, several bushes of lavender, crocus, daffodil, snow-drops, are bushes of yellow currant, a mossrose or two, going on a little farther I saw the remains of what had been the family orchard with apple trees, pear trees a grape arbor running wild in its abondonment. In fact the place showed that its owner had taken pride in his or her home perhaps their home. Unconsciously I bean to reconstruct the possible surrounding pomp and circumstance, so the next time you sit before the fire place and the lights are low just reconstruct the joy, hope, happiness, perhaps tragedy which this old garden may have witnessed.

The mountain playgrounds are just now beginning to receive the annual wild flower colorings with which mother nature so generously pastels this section each year. Perhaps as we grow older we become more maudlin about such things, at any rate, no words can adequately describe a mountain dell covered with wild flowers. Take any road in any direction and soon you will come to these beauty spots.

And then when you are away from Nevada City tell everyone with whom you come in contact that NEVADA CITY IS THE GATEWAY TO THE MOUNTAIN PLAYGROUNDS.

You have been my guest while you read this column I hope you have been entertained while here and I will see you again next Monday.

The Crooners

I've never seeen a crooner.
But I have heard scores croon
In vibratory measures
Of moonlight, love and June;
And often have I wondered,
As sob stuff moaned around
If all these soulful crooners
Were sappy as they sound.

They wail, "I'll call you Sugar,"
And, "Precious, hold my Hand;"
The rhapsodies of yearning
Dismay the weary land;
Fond hearts with love are bursting,
Of this they sadly sing,
And then we hear the snapping
Of every quivering string.

In fancy I behold them,
Their faces stark with pain,
Their wild eyes staring skyward,
Like dying ducks in rain;
Alas, too well I hear them,
And so indeed do you,
And fret because they're feeling
So ghastly sad and blue.

O'Conners, give us respite,
The days are brighter now;
Come, smooth the corrugations
That mar each youthful brow;
Be happy, give us music,
To match a brighter day,
Fold up those mawkish sob songs
And give us something gay.

BOAT READY FOR MAY 1 WHEN FISHING OPENS

The Lady of the Lake, a pretty, 16 foot row boat, freshly painted, belonging to Will and Lawrence Carter, loaded on a trailer, was being given the last minute touches Wednesday in preparation for the fishing season which opens May 1st. in our district.

Mr. Leet and Mr. Shields of the Nevada City Nugget was calling in town on different dates recently.

SEAGULLS BANE OF GOLDEN GATE DUCKS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13—(UP)—Consternation reigns among the duck matrons of Golden Gate Park. The comfort and serenity of their domestic life has been shattered by a cruel marauder, a murderous kidnaping seagull.

Mrs. A. A. Bontemps witnessed one "crime." She was feeding—or, rather, attempting to feed—a mother duck and four little ducklings. Overheard hovered seagulls who swooped down as each crust struck the water and snatched it away from the hungry but slower ducks.

Finally one venturesome little duckling beat a seagull to it. Triumphantly he swam away with the crust in his mouth.

His victory was short lived. An irritated seagull dropped like a plummet, seized the frightened little paddler and flew away while the mother duck futily quaked her sorrow.

Book Review

This is the first of a series of bookreviews and travelogues by Dan I. Schnabel of Stanford University, whose work has been attracting much favorable attention among writing circles of Palo Alto and the University.

By DAN SCHNAHEL,

The most purposeful of post-war novels, Ramarque's "All Quiet on the Western Front" has been called. The title has a subtly ironic application, since it refers to that particular day of quiet on the Western front when the hero fell. Paul was the last of a class of German gymnasium students who had volunteered after the eloquent and enthusiastic classromm speeches on patriotism by their teacher, and who realized more and more clearly as the succession of nights and days in the tranches progressed, that they had been cheated out of life with its sweetness and beauty and "all the mysterious things that women had to offer." Trench warfare, shell shock, vermin-infetsed dugouts, the soul-enervating struggle for mere existence, blood, terror, the screams of madmen and wounded men and dying men—! Their sole chance of enduring it all lay in building and keeping intact a crust about their consciousness, an insulation to prevent all conception of values beyond the hourly necessities of food, shelter, mere life, from penetrating to their inner selves. To be callous—that was the thing; to think, to be sensitive, was torture. The crust was so feble, and so pitifully brittle at best. One poor devil lost his protection through the sudden exquisite beauty of a blooming apple tree at twilight as he returned exhausted from the front.

It recalled too vividly to him a vision of the orchard at his Westphalian home where the trees spread "white as a sheet under his window." So he deserted, was caught of course, and they sent him mercifully forever beyond the terror of the guns. Rough, crude humor, an occassional foray for geese, or a young pig, these eased the almost unbearable, but the sense of attrition, of being forever spoiled for fineness, and keenness and laughter, of having the beauty in their souls atrophied before their spring had come, was something impossible to alleviate. And then that quiet day on the Western Front when Paul goes to meet his dead comrades with a bullet in his brain.

Although the author is a German the book transcends nationality. So simply written, so sincere, so without anger or passion, that it is almost unendurably pathetic. I found myself wanting to skip, not from boredom, but because of apprehension. The huner, the agonizing, eternal fear of shattering, rending, death, the pain and dirt and horror, the butchered companions, and thru it all the hopeless, brooding sense of youth and life wasted without reason. Its passionless stolidity, one feels, comes not of too little contact with the horrors of war, but of too much. It gives the effect that description is made inadequate and analysis futile because of the awful fact that to the author the unspeakable has become the commonplalce.

So profound and sadly calm is the author's foreword that it will leave no reader unaffected. "This book is to be neither an accusation nor a confession, and least of all an adventure, for death is not an adventure to those who stand face to face with it. It will try simply to tell of a generation of men, who, even though they may have escaped its shells, were destroyed by the war."

And the last paragraph—"He fell in October 1918, on a day that was so quiet and still on the whole front, that the army report confined itself to the single sentence: All quiet on the Western Front.

"He had fallen forward and lay on the earth as tho sleeping. Turning him over one saw that he could not have suffered long; his face had an expression of calm as though almost glad the end had come.

A quiet indictment, so sincere and infinitely gentle its reproach that it will leave no reader unmoved. You will say as you close the book, "Ah, if only they could all read this—."
